About the series

International Humanitarian Affairs

is a new series devoted to improving the effectiveness of humanitarian relief programs. With contributions by leading professionals, the books are practical guides to responding to the many different effects of civil strife, natural disasters, epidemics, and other crises—medical, political, legal, economic, social, and cultural.

About the editor

Kevin M. Cahill, M.D., is Director of the Institute of International Humanitarian Affairs at Fordham University and President of the Center for International Health and Cooperation in New York City. He is the author of 26 books, an internationally known expert on tropical medicine, and a leader in humanitarian campaigns.
